VALUES OF IMPORTS IN 1893 FROM COUNTRIES HAVING DEPRECIATED PAPER CURRENCIES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, BUREAU OF STATISTICS,
Washington, D. C., August 15, 1893.

SIR: I have the honor to submit to you my reasons for noting material changes in the trade figures of imports from certain countries of South America for the last fiscal year. Was the difference between nominal (as officially published for the last twelve months) and real values small, I should not undertake to make any alterations; as in comparing so large amounts as are involved a wide margin is allowable, and does not materially affect the conclusion to be drawn. But when the error amounts to nearly 9 per cent of the total value of imports, and this 9 per cent is concentrated upon the imports of a comparatively few articles from a small number of countries, I deem it expedient to attempt a proper correction in at least two commodities, and in the general total. Otherwise the returns of import values for 1893 in these special lines are worthless in themselves, and more than misleading when compared with the returns of previous, as they will be when compared with the returns of subsequent years.

The various stages of the development of this error are in brief as follows:

In January, 1892, an importing firm of Philadelphia complained to the Department of State that the American consul at Messina charged $1 for a currency certificate to accompany an invoice of olive oil, and asked why it was necessary to require a currency certificate on invoices of commodities imported into the United States free of duty or under a specific duty. The question, upon its face, a reasonable one, was referred to the Treasury, and under date January 23, 1892, Mr. Spaulding, the Acting Secretary, wrote:

"After due consideration I have to state that with your [i. e., the Department of State] approval this Department will issue instructions to collectors to waive the requirement of a currency certificate in all cases where the value of the currency does not affect the dutiable value of the merchandise." Thereupon the Department of State issued a circular letter to the consular officers embodying this decision of the Treasury. Intended to relieve the importer of a consular tax, this instruction was in alignment with a policy which is to be commended, of removing all unnecessary restrictions from the import and export trade of the United States. It has had, however, a disastrous effect upon statistical returns, one that was properly notified to the Department of State as early as April, 1892, by Mr. Charles Heath, United States consul at Catania. From all countries having paper money of depreciated value merchandise has been sent to the United States with the value expressed in paper money, and with no record of the real value by which the nominal could be properly reduced. From no less than thirteen countries have such returns been received, for at least fifteen months, with the consequence of entirely vitiating for that period the returns on certain lines of merchandise from two and partially from ten countries.

The wide range to which this matter applies may be further illustrated. The total imports of goods free of duty in 1892 were valued at $457,999,658, as compared with the value of goods subject to duty of $369,402,804. Of the $458,000,000, nearly one-third, or $152,169,822 were imported from countries having a depreciated paper medium of exchange. I do not quote the figures for 1893, because the inflated values render them too misleading for comparison.

I have made an attempt to establish some principle by which I could make corrections in the returns of all these countries having a depreciated currency. I find, however, that no general rule will apply, for the manner of making the invoices, filed in the different ports of entry has not been uniform. In the port of New York the values of imports from Brazil were "almost always" expressed in paper money. In the port of Baltimore the currency certificates were "in most instances" attached to the invoices of imports of free goods and goods subject to specific duty. In the port of New Orleans the proper corrections were "occasionally" made; and in the port of Boston the corrections were made only "to a limited extent." The collector of customs at San Francisco reports entries in excessive values from Chile, Russia, and Italy, and the invoices "generally fail" to have a correcting certificate.

To introduce a full and complete correction each individual invoice in every collection district and port of entry of the United States, now one hundred and twenty-five in number, would have to be examined and the proper correction made—not from any record attached to the invoice, but from an independent reference to the actual value of the paper medium on the day of export—a task entirely beyond the present force of the service. I can, therefore, apply only a general correction.

I have prepared a list of countries which have at the present writing a paper medium, circulating at a value below the face value. Against each country I have placed the total value of merchandise exported to this country, and entered free of duty, in the fiscal year 1893. I have also undertaken, with only partial success, to determine the rate of depreciation of the respective currencies in July, 1892, and June, 1893.

COUNTRY.	IMPORTS FREE OF DUTY.		COUNTRY.	IMPORTS FREE OF DUTY.
	1893.	1892.		1893.	1892.
Russia in Europe	$2,753,848	$1,458,344	Costa Rica	$2,308,222	$2,084,955
Italy	13,749,097	10,901,745	Guatemala	2,554,578	3,182,838
Turkey in Asia	1,330,796	1,374,013	Honduras	683,424	959,989
Argentine Republic	3,843,843	3,921,623	Nicaragua	1,398,867	1,656,708
Brazil	151,008,364	118,421,158	Salvador	1,355,674	2,330,697

Ecuador	958,216	307,187	Total	187,328,397	152,169,822
Uruguay (?)	1,535,880	1,883,927

In connection with the above table I am able to give the following notes: The value of the silver ruble of Russia in July, 1892, was 51.9 cents United States currency; in January, 1893, it was 49.1 cents; and in June, 1893, 48.3 cents. To be of full value it should be worth 55.3 cents, while the gold ruble was worth 77.2 cents. The paper and silver currency of Russia, I am informed, fluctuates exceedingly, and an instance was cited where 215 German marks were required to purchase 100 rubles paper currency one day, while 207 marks made the purchase of the same number of rubles the very next day.

At Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, the premium on gold in June, 1892, ranged from 206 to 214. In the last week of January, 1893, it fluctuated from 198 to 215, and in June, 1893, from 233 to 243. So far, however, as individual invoices have been examined the amount of error applying to imports from the Argentine Republic is comparatively small.

The course of the currency of Brazil is sufficiently shown in the accompanying diagram.

The Chilean peso, gold and silver, is worth at par 91.2 cents United States money. In July, 1892, the paper peso was quoted at 34.25 cents; in January, 1893, at 35.25 cents; and in July, 1893, at 29 cents.

The paper sucre of Ecuador was worth, at the rate of exchange given in the middle of June, 1893, 44½ cents as compared with the par value of 69.1 cents. A number of merchants unite in the statement that Uruguay has no paper currency. In Costa Rica, where the unit is silver, the paper is worth about 30 per cent less than the coin; but the rate varies so widely and frequently that one transaction is no guide to others. I am unable to obtain definite and satisfactory information on the currencies of other countries of Central America.

When it is considered that the import figures for the last quarter of 1892 were quite as open to criticism, and on the same ground, as the figures for the entire year of 1893; when it is considered that imports as a whole have tended to decrease in quantity, or remained stationary, reflecting the general condition of trade throughout the commercial world; when it is considered that the general trend of prices has been downward; and finally, when it is considered that with hardly an exception the paper currencies of these countries has depreciated more and more throughout the fiscal year just closed, it will readily be admitted that in this one class of merchandise—that is, goods admitted free of entry—there has been opportunity for a wide departure from true values.

In this table no account has been taken of another important class of goods on which the requirement of a currency certificate was waived—goods subject to a specific duty, which would largely increase the total to be corrected. Of the total amount of duties collected on the dutiable imports of the year 1892, somewhat more than one-half arose from specific duties, the exact proportion being 50.2 per cent, collected under specific rates, and 49.8 per cent, collected under ad valorem rates. Applying the same proportion to the total value of dutiable imports for the fiscal year 189, we find that $211,743,000 was subject to specific duty. How much of this total was received from countries having depreciated currencies it is now impossible to say; but the imports from Italy alone run up into the millions, and certain items from this and other countries open up a tempting field for conjecture.

Given the total value of importations of these classes of merchandise and the average rate of depreciation of the currency, and it would be a comparatively simple matter to make the proper corrections in every item; but to obtain that total value is, as has been said, out of the question, without reviewing the entire import business of the year; while I do not know where the daily variations in the value of the paper money could be obtained. Where a paper medium fluctuates widely from week to week, as did the milreis of Brazil (see diagram), the complicating circumstances would be so many, and so subtle, as to baffle the most careful attempt to eliminate them.

BRAZIL.

The most notable illustration of the working of this circular is to be found in the coffee exports from Brazil to the United States. The unit of currency of Brazil, the paper milreis, has been depreciated since 1889. I have prepared and print with this a diagram showing the variation of this paper milreis from week to week since January, 1892, together with the averages for the calendar and fiscal year and for periods of six months. At the time the circular (February, 1892,) was issued the actual value of the milreis was a little more than 23 cents, the par or face value being 54.6 cents.

The value of Brazil coffee as entered at the custom-houses began at once to rise, showing that the merchants were availing themselves of the new privilege. The average import price of coffee January–March, 1892, was 20 cents; April to June, 23 cents; and in the first quarter of the new fiscal year (1893) it rose to 26 cents. The reported increase in price was continuous until the end of the quarter January–March, 1893, when it stood at 30 cents. The average import value in the fiscal year 1892 was 21.1 cents, and in fiscal year 1893, 29.2 cents, an increase of more than 38 per cent. The import price for 1892 was above the real price at the place of export, and with a proper correction would rule at a much lower rate. I have obtained from one of the largest importers of Brazil coffee in New York the monthly quotations at Rio Janeiro of standard No. 7 during the last fiscal year:

1892.	Cents.	1893.	Cents.
July	12½	January	15⅞
August	13½	February	17
September	14⅛	March	17
October	15	April	16
November	15½	May	15⅛
December	15⅞	June	15¾

The import value as given at the port of Baltimore for the fiscal year 1893 was 13.4 cents.

It is unfortunately too late to introduce any corrections into the returns of 1892. As the returns of 1893 must be used in comparison with those of 1894, I propose to make the following corrections: The average value of the paper milreis for the fiscal year 1893 was 24.3 cents, or about 45 per cent of its real value. There can be little question that nearly all the imports of coffee from Brazil, valued at $120,760,424 for the fiscal year 1893, were reported at the custom-houses in their paper value. It will, therefore, be within the limit of safety if the values of coffee from Brazil monthly be reduced by about one-half in value, making a difference in the value of the imports of that article alone, for the last fiscal year, of about $63,000,000. This reduction may the more readily be accepted as some allowance should be made for inflated values of coffee imported from countries other than Brazil.

The same method can also be applied to imports of India rubber from the same country and under the same conditions. The imports of India rubber from all sources in the fiscal year 1892 were 39,976,205 pounds, valued at $19,718,216, or 49 cents a pound. In 1893 the imports had increased to 41,547,680 pounds, but the value had risen to $29,185,485, and the apparent price per pound to 70 cents. The average import value of rubber from Brazil was 53 cents a pound in 1892 and 86 cents a pound in 1893—an increase of 62 per cent in apparent price. The two articles of coffee and India rubber from Brazil—a total value of nearly $144,000,000—are thus greatly overvalued in paper in the returns, and to the extent of more than 100 per cent on the real value.

It would be interesting to take a number of articles, admitted free of duty, or under a specific duty, from these countries of depreciated paper, and show how they have been altered in value through this administrative blunder. But when it is considered how wide a range must be covered in the imports from other countries, covering an extensive schedule of articles that come in under our tariff, free of duty or subject to a specific duty, it becomes out of the question to apply a rigid rule of correction. I have, therefore, taken the aggregate of coffee and India-rubber imports from Brazil alone—$144,000,000—as the basis of a general estimate, and believe that the values of the total imports into the United States during the fiscal year 1893 should be reduced $75,000,000. This general estimate is also based upon a belief that it will allow for the change in values in all articles, other than coffee and India rubber, coming from the thirteen countries named, and entered in different methods at the custom ports of the United States. It is based on a principle of general compensation. I have therefore reduced the total value of imports of merchandise by $75,000,000, thus making the following change in the so-called balance of trade:

Merchandise.	Uncorrected.	Corrected.
Imports	$941,400,922	$866,400,922
Exports	847,665,194	847,665,194
Excess of imports	93,735,728	18,735,728

I also propose to reduce each of the two items of coffee and India rubber imported from Brazil, the one by 52 per cent and the other by 50 per cent—these being fair allowances, and if anything under, rather than above the true percentages. To do more than this would expose me to errors and contradictions, however desirable other modifications might appear to be.

The returns of certain items of trade of 1893 must therefore remain open to suspicion; and this administrative error, although noted early in the fiscal year 1893, has been allowed to run so long as to make the details of that year in articles imported free of duty or subject to specific duty from the countries of depreciated paper money very unsafe when used in comparison with the details of a former year.

The matter has been submitted to the Department of State, and, by agreement with that Department, every precaution taken to provide against a repetition of such an error. Under the new regulations a consular currency certificate will be required for all classes of goods from countries of depreciated currency, but without fee; thus effecting the object of the circular of February, 1892, and at the same time giving the values expressed in invoices the official basis they formerly had.

Yours, respectfully,

WORTHINGTON C. FORD,
Chief of Bureau.

HON. J. G. CARLISLE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

MINERAL OILS IN FRANCE.

On July 12, 1893, a modification was made in the French tariff rates on mineral oils as established by the law of June 30, 1893.

197 Petroleum, schist, and other mineral oils fit for illumination:
Crude (a)	100	18.00	23.00	18.00	23.00	100 (b)	9.00 (c)	14.00	9.00 (c)	14.00

a. All oils which do not contain more than 90 per cent of illuminating matter and which, in the condition they are imported, are not fit to burn in ordinary lamps, shall be considered as crude.

In calculating the 90 per cent centesimal fractions shall be ignored. Mineral oil containing not more than 30 per cent of illuminating matter shall be considered as lubricating oil.

In cases where the declarers, contesting the analysis made in the customs laboratories, claim the legal appraisement, such appraisement shall be effected by the chemists inscribed on the general list mentioned in Article 9 of the law of January 11, 1892, under the conditions prescribed by Article 4 of the law of May 7, 1881.

b. In derogation to Article 24 of the law of May 16, 1863, the duties established for crude petroleum, as well as those stipulated for heavy oils and for residues, shall be levied on net weight.

c. The duty according to weight established for crude petroleum may, at the request of the importer, be converted to a duty per hectoliter in the minimum tariff. This duty shall be 7.20 francs for oil at 800 degrees.

d. The importation and sale of refined mineral oils, other than essences, whose flashing point is inferior to the limits fixed by the decree of May 19, 1873, and, for oils of the second category, by the ministerial ordinance of September 5, 1873, is prohibited. An administrative regulation shall determine the method of applying this disposition.

e. The duty on refined mineral oils and essences proper for purposes of illumination shall be levied according to volume, in the minimum tariff, at the rate of 10 francs per hectoliter. This duty shall, in consequence, substitute the duty of 12.50 francs (per 100 kilograms), which duty is only given in the above table as a basis of conversion.

ART. 2. The dispositions relative to coal employed on war and merchant vessels shall be applicable to petroleum, and residues thereof, used for a similar purpose.

ART. 3. From the promulgation of the new tariff of petroleum no octroi tariff relative to vegetable and mineral oils may be instituted in cities where no tariff exists, nor raised where it does exist.

In towns where such a tariff is in force the duty on such oils shall not, from the day of expiration of said tariff, exceed 50 per cent the duty levied by the Treasury, tenths included.

ART. 4. The benefit of temporary admittance is accorded to crude petroleum, schist, and other mineral oils.

A decree issued in the form of an administrative regulation shall determine the conditions under which the temporary admission shall be applied.

ART. 5. The government is authorized to concede to Russia, by a special convention, the benefit of the dispositions of the present law, reserving the right of revoking this concession by notifying such intention twelve months in advance.

On the other hand, the benefit of the dispositions of the present law may be provisionally granted, by decree, to countries whose products do not enjoy, on entry into France, the most favored nation treatment.

ART. 6. The duties inscribed under Nos. 197 and 198 of Schedule A annexed to the law of January 11, 1892, shall continue to be levied up to July 11, 1893, inclusive.

"The benefit of the new tariff concerning mineral oils, as established by the law of June 30, 1893, will be temporarily extended to the mineral oils imported from the United States after the 12th of the present month."

Decree dated Paris, July 7, 1893.

COMPARATIVE PRICES.

The Bureau is frequently asked for information on the prices of leading commodities in the domestic market. In spite of many compilations on this subject there is no one that offers in a compact form the prices for a series of years, obtained from authoritative sources and based upon uniform methods of reporting. In the columns of many trade journals may be found valuable tables; but these are widely scattered, of limited circulation, and are confined to a few articles. The compilation known as the "Report by Mr. Aldrich from the [Senate] Committee on Finance" (seven volumes) contains a large number of tables of retail and wholesale prices in many markets, but necessarily stops with the years 1891 and 1892. However useful they may be for the periods they cover, they are lacking in one of the most essential features of a true table of prices, in that they are not continuous and in many cases can not be continued to subsequent years.

I propose to lay the beginning of a table that shall approach nearer to a full economic expression of price, experience in some of the leading commodities bought and sold in our domestic market. I have sought the assistance of experts in a few special lines of trade, who are to report to this bureau each week the prices of their specialties in their local markets. The article quoted will be so described as to be easily and generally recognized; the price quoted will be the market price upon a particular day of the week, or what the expert believes to be an average price for the week. I am well aware that the quotation of one week, taken absolutely, may not be a fair index of the market value of a commodity subject to wide fluctuations in price; but the intention of this table is to gradually build up from week to week and from month to month and, finally, from year to year, quotations obtained upon a uniform system. In course of time, therefore, the relation of these prices of any one commodity will, in a measure, neutralize the sharp daily and weekly variations, which in limited periods might render any average out of the question.

To enable us to make a further correction of local and temporary variations in price quotations I propose to prepare a table each month of the average import and export prices of certain leading commodities, based upon the returns received in this bureau from the collectors of the respective ports. Such prices, obtained by dividing the custom-house values by the quantities of the commodities exported or imported, will require no further explanation.

As a third corrective I propose to print a table of prices for the London market as printed in the Economist. These tables have been prepared for a number of years upon a uniform basis, and express for the English market very nearly the same facts as it is my intention to express for the markets of the United States. Through the courtesy of the editor of the London Economist I am able to explain his method of making up prices:

"The tables of prices in our Monthly Trade Supplement are compiled from several sources. The bulk of the quotations are derived from the Weekly Price Current, which appears in each issue of the Economist. In that last prices of each of the commodities are revised every Friday by a firm dealing in the article, and are then checked from other sources by an outside contributor specially engaged and paid for the purpose.

"Other prices, such as those for cotton and wool, are obtained from the reports of paid correspondents in different parts of the country.

"The prices of wheat and other grains are those given weekly in the London Gazette, a Government publication; while for iron and a few other commodities the prices are those recorded at the metal and other exchanges."

To secure the consistency and continuity which I most desire it will be impossible to give any figures for a period earlier than July 1, 1893, except for the English prices.

The following are the descriptions of the leading commodities to be quoted, with the names of the reporters who have courteously offered to coöperate with me in the preparation of this table:

BUREAU OF STATISTICS,
SEPTEMBER 25, 1893.

MONTHLY AVERAGE PRICES OF THE PRINCIPAL ARTICLES OF MERCHANDISE IMPORTED AND EXPORTED.

NOTE.—The values of merchandise imported are their values in the foreign market from which imported, and the cost of freight of the goods from the last foreign port whence they are shipped to the United States is not included in their value.

The values of domestic merchandise exported represent the actual cost of the merchandise, or the values which the goods may truly bear at the time of exportation in the ports of the United States from which exported.

NOTE.—Immigrants from the British North American Possessions and Mexico are not included in the statistics of immigration, owing to the absence of law providing for the collection of accurate data in regard thereto. The arrivals of immigrants in the customs districts above specified comprise about 99 per cent of the entire immigration into the country.

IMMIGRATION INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM.

NUMBER OF ALIENS ARRIVED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM FROM CONTINENTAL EUROPE DURING THE MONTH AND EIGHT MONTHS ENDING AUGUST 31, 1893, COMPARED WITH THE CORRESPONDING PERIODS OF 1892.

[From a return of the Board of Trade, September 7, 1893.]

* The difference between the two columns of "Dollars in Treasury," is explained in this way: Since early in the administration of the silver law of 1878 the Treasury has issued silver certificates against silver dollars in the Treasury. Until the passage of the act of 1890 all the dollars in the Treasury were available for this purpose, and consequently there is no difference in the two columns up to the end of July, in that year. But in August the issue of Treasury notes under the Sherman act began, and these were required to be covered by bullion or coined dollars in the Treasury. Hence the dollars in the Treasury were no longer all available for the issue of silver certificates, but only those which were not required to be held under the new act. To ascertain conveniently the amount so required, the cost of the bullion in the Treasury is subtracted from the amount of Treasury notes outstanding. The remainder thus obtained is subtracted from the total dollars in the Treasury, and this gives the figures in the fifth column of the table. The same result is obtained, of course, by subtracting the amount of outstanding Treasury notes from the sum of the silver dollars and bullion in the Treasury.

COMMERCE OF FOREIGN NATIONS.

In the last two issues of this "Summary" a table has been printed showing the total value of the commerce of leading nations in the last month for which a report could be obtained, based upon a similar publication contained in the Board of Trade Journal, London. Believing that trade conditions are relative and not absolute, I propose to print each month an extension of this table which will show the imports and exports of other nations in those lines of commerce which concern the commercial interests of the United States. I begin with tables based upon the monthly returns of British India, France, and Italy. In the October issue will be added similar tables of British and German trade. The method of selecting the articles to be reported is as follows: In whatever line of production the United States contributes an important share of the import or export trade of the country, full mention is made. Not only are quantities and values stated, where obtainable, but countries of origin and countries of destination, and the quantities and values of each article set against the respective countries.

It would be impossible to print in full the monthly reports of the foreign trade of these countries, and a selection must be made for the purpose. The total volume of trade will be stated, but the special items are intended to show how far the United States is a successful competitor in supplying the markets of the reporting nation, and to what extent the United States shares in the leading branches of their export trade. This will give the material for comparative commercial statistics; and the plan, if successful, will be extended so as to cover the commerce of all such nations as issue detailed reports at stated intervals. As the United Kingdom supplies nearly one-fifth of the total value of imports into the United States and takes about 40 per cent of the value of our exports, the English tables will be the most important for gauging the capacity of the United States for competing in the leading commercial market of the world. While a study of the corresponding capacity in other nations will explain, in a measure, the wide fluctuations that frequently occur in our export trade, and lead to a better understanding of the general principles that underlie our commercial relations with foreign nations. As a gauge of industrial and productive conditions, as well as commercial, such comparative statements will be valuable; and as I intend to continue the record from month to month, a mass of information will be gradually accumulated, well repaying a careful study.

It will be noted that quantities and values are given in the English and Indian tables. The Italian and German tables give only quantities, and are for this reason not so distinctly useful as a table that gives both factors. The Italian tables make mention of only "North America" as a whole; but that generally means the United States. The French tables are the most defective of all, for the monthly publication, comprised in a single octavo page, gives nothing more than the aggregate values, and four or five of the leading countries contributing. For any details of her commerce, either export or import, reference must be had to the annual publication of the French Government; and this, when it appears, will be duly summarized in this publication. The force of the Bureau is insufficient to enable a proper reduction of foreign weights and values to American equivalents. But a note will be found in each issue, stating the foreign and the corresponding American units.

Chief of Bureau.

NOTE.—Immigrants from the British North American Possessions and Mexico are not included in the statistics of immigration, owing to the absence of law providing for the collection of accurate data in regard thereto. The arrivals of immigrants in the customs districts above specified comprise about 99 per cent of the entire immigration into the country.

IMMIGRATION INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM.

NUMBER OF ALIENS ARRIVED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM FROM CONTINENTAL EUROPE DURING THE MONTH AND NINE MONTHS ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1893, COMPARED WITH THE CORRESPONDING PERIODS OF 1892.

NOTE.—The distinction made between "Aliens not stated to be en route to America" and "Aliens en route to America" does not imply that the latter class of aliens comes to the United Kingdom for settlement; many of the aliens arriving from continental ports return to the continent.

a The number of sailors included with the aliens who arrived in the United Kingdom not en route to America in the month of September, 1893, was 663, and 801 in the same month of 1892; in the nine months ended September 30, 1893, the number was 7,569, and in the same months of 1892 the number was 7,974.

a See explanatory letter in Summary Statement of Imports and Exports for August, 1893.

MONTHLY AVERAGE PRICES OF THE PRINCIPAL ARTICLES OF MERCHANDISE IMPORTED AND EXPORTED.

NOTE.—The values of merchandise imported are their values in the foreign market from which imported, and the cost of freight of the goods from the last foreign port whence they are shipped to the United States is not included in their value.

The values of domestic merchandise exported represent the actual cost of the merchandise, or the values which the goods may truly bear at the time of exportation in the ports of the United States from which exported.

NOTE.—Immigrants from the British North American Possessions and Mexico are not included in the above statistics of immigration, owing to the absence of law providing for the collection of accurate data in regard thereto. The arrivals of immigrants in the customs districts above specified comprise about 99 per cent of the immigration into the country at ports reporting such arrival. The Commissioner of Immigration, through his agent at Quebec, reports the arrival of 332 immigrants destined for the United States, of which 165 were males and 167 females.

IMMIGRATION INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM.

NUMBER OF ALIENS ARRIVED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM FROM CONTINENTAL EUROPE DURING THE MONTH AND TEN MONTHS ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1893, COMPARED WITH THE CORRESPONDING PERIODS OF 1892.

[From a return of the Board of Trade, November 6, 1893.]

NOTE.—The distinction made between "Aliens not stated to be en route to America" and "Aliens en route to America" does not imply that the former class of aliens comes to the United Kingdom for settlement; many of the aliens arriving from continental ports return to the continent.

a The number of sailors included with the aliens who arrived in the United Kingdom not en route to America in the month of October, 1893, was 830, and 858 in the same month of 1892; in the ten months ending October 31, 1893, the number was 8,399, and in the same months of 1892 the number was 8,832.

MONTHLY AVERAGE PRICES OF THE PRINCIPAL ARTICLES OF MERCHANDISE IMPORTED AND EXPORTED.

NOTE.—The values of merchandise imported are their values in the foreign market from which imported, and the cost of freight of the goods from the last foreign port whence they are shipped to the United States is not included in their value.

The values of domestic merchandise exported represent the actual cost of the merchandise, or the values which the goods may truly bear at the time of exportation in the ports of the United States from which exported.

NOTE.—Immigrants from the British North American Possessions and Mexico are not included in the above statistics of immigration, owing to the absence of law providing for the collection of accurate data in regard thereto. The arrivals of immigrants in the ports above specified comprise about 99 per cent of the immigration into the country at ports reporting such arrivals. The Commissioner of Immigration, through his agent at Quebec, reports the arrival of 1,286 immigrants destined for the United States during the month of November, 1893, of whom 670 were males and 616 females.

IMMIGRATION INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM.

NUMBER OF ALIENS ARRIVED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM FROM CONTINENTAL EUROPE DURING THE MONTH AND ELEVEN MONTHS ENDING NOVEMBER 30, 1893, COMPARED WITH THE CORRESPONDING PERIODS OF 1892.

NOTE.—The distinction made between "Aliens not stated to be en route to America" and "Aliens en route to America" does not imply that the former class of aliens comes to the United Kingdom for settlement; many of the aliens arriving from continental ports return to the continent.

a The number of sailors included with the aliens who arrived in the United Kingdom not en route to America in the month of November, 1893, was 693, and 731 in the same month of 1892; in the eleven months ending November 30, 1893, the number was 9,092, and in the same months of 1892 the number was 9,563.

a See explanatory letter in Summary Statement of Imports and Exports for August, 1893.

b Average prices at New York.

MONTHLY AVERAGE PRICES OF THE PRINCIPAL ARTICLES OF MERCHANDISE IMPORTED AND EXPORTED.

NOTE.—The values of merchandise imported are their values in the foreign market from which imported, and the cost of freight of the goods from the last foreign port whence they are shipped to the United States is not included in their value.

The values of domestic merchandise exported represent the actual cost of the merchandise, or the values which the goods may truly bear at the time of exportation in the ports of the United States from which exported.

NOTE.—Immigrants from the British North American Possessions and Mexico are not included in the above statistics of immigration, owing to the absence of law providing for the collection of accurate data in regard thereto. The arrivals of immigrants in the ports above specified comprise about 99 per cent of the immigration into the country at ports reporting such arrivals. The Commissioner of Immigration, through his agent at Vancouver, British Columbia, reports the arrival of 146 immigrants destined for the United States during the month of December, 1893, of whom 140 were males and 6 females, and through his agent at Halifax reports the arrival of 644 immigrants, of whom 326 were males and 318 females.

IMMIGRATION INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM.

NUMBER OF ALIENS ARRIVED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM FROM CONTINENTAL EUROPE DURING THE MONTH AND TWELVE MONTHS ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1893, COMPARED WITH THE CORRESPONDING PERIODS OF 1892.

NOTE.—The distinction made between "Aliens not stated to be en route to America" and "Aliens en route to America" does not imply that the former class of aliens comes to the United Kingdom for settlement; many of the aliens arriving from continental ports return to the continent.

a The number of sailors included with the aliens who arrived in the United Kingdom not en route to America in the month of December, 1893, was 521, and 786 in the same month of 1892; in the twelve months ending December 31, 1893, the number was 9,613, and in the same months of 1892 the number was 10,349.

a See explanatory letter in Summary Statement of Imports and Exports for August, 1893.

MONTHLY AVERAGE PRICES OF THE PRINCIPAL ARTICLES OF MERCHANDISE IMPORTED AND EXPORTED.

NOTE.—The values of merchandise imported are their values in the foreign market from which imported, and the cost of freight of the goods from the last foreign port whence they are shipped to the United States is not included in their value.

The values of domestic merchandise exported represent the actual cost of the merchandise, or the values which the goods may truly bear at the time of exportation in the ports of the United States from which exported.
